MONDO TV GROUP: Signed the long form agreement with Animagic Media for the co-production of Bug Rangers

It is the first co-production in the U.S.A. with significant values which was not included in the business plan approved by the BoD of the Company at the end of March

Rome/Los Angeles, 7 May 2014 – Following to the execution of the first agreement between Mondo TV and Animagic Media Group announced on the last April 14, 2014, for the co-production and distribution of a new 3D CGI animated TV series based on the successful Bug Rangers property, the two companies executed today in Los Angeles the so called long form agreement relating to the same production and defining the further technical specifics of the production of the new series.

By the execution of the so called long form agreement the production of the new series begins with the aim of presenting the same at MipJunior in Cannes on October 2014, while the whole series should be completed by the month of March 2016.

The long form agreement does not modify the economics of the agreement which was announced in April 2014 which provides for the participation of the parties at 50% each to the revenues deriving from the distribution of the series and its related licensing and merchandising, while Mondo TV will have a minority share on the revenues deriving from the toy line developed from the series. Mondo TV shall take care of the worldwide distribution of the series (except for North America) and shall distribute the licensing and merchandising in Southern Europe and Russia, while Lawless Entertainment will handle distribution of the series in North America as well as licensing and merchandising worldwide (except for Southern Europe and Russia).

It is the first co-production in the U.S.A. with significant value for the Group which was not included in the business plan approved by the BoD of the Company at the end of March.

Matteo Corradi, Managing Director of the holding company, stated: “We are really happy for this new project which can open the door for further projects and new cooperation in the United States. We continue our efforts for an increasing internationalization of Mondo TV Group”.
